Urban Community School

"Clevelanders Unite!"

Clevelanders Unite! to benefit the children at Urban Community School was a testament to the loyal family of board trustees, philanthropists, administrators, teachers, parents and alumni that surrounds the school with unwavering support. Neighbors Farkas Bakery (owned by alumnus Ed Kroeger), Light Bistro and Great Lakes Brewing Co. also participated in providing a sumptuous buffet of international style foods and beverages.

Students were on hand to greet guests, chat with donors about the school and give classroom tours. Each guest received a handwritten thank you note from one of the students.

The joyful event, held at the new school, drew more than 250 guests and the campaign, including underwriters, ticket sales and donors, raised more than $200,000.

There were ample opportunities to give – the auction featured enriching experiences such as lunch for six with the crusader and "Plain Dealer" columnist and radio show host Regina Brett, breakfast for six with award-winning sportswriter Terry Pluto and a dinner for eight prepared by winner of the Iron Chef contest, local celebrity Michael Symon.

Creative care packages were available for purchase as well at $100 each which will be used for special field trips and projects. STORY BY SALI McSHERRY. PHOTOGRAPHS BY JOHN BASHIAN
